

DAVID CHAVEZ BIOGRAPHYDAVID CHAVEZ

David leads smart, savvy executives who have built successful businesses at the sacrifice of their personal lives, financial livelihoods and mental health and helps them develop new, structured approaches to managing and running their firms.

His background in being able to understand and coach high-level business leaders grew from his experience as a military veteran, from working with high-level firms such as Arthur Andersen and the Greenspun Corp., and from running his own businesses. In fact, Chavez has started, grown and sold five of his own enterprises.

Today, Chavez spends the majority of his time guiding executives on how to build teams that can execute more successful strategies. He also facilitates strategic-planning sessions and is known for rolling up his sleeves to help clients develop winning plans to get the job done.

Chavez is a Four Decisions® certified coach, a proven, structured approach to developing and executing strategy. He also is a Vistage International Chair, facilitating peer-advisory groups that help business executives become better leaders, make better decisions and achieve better results.
